President's Message

Paul Datti, PhD, CRC, HS-BCP

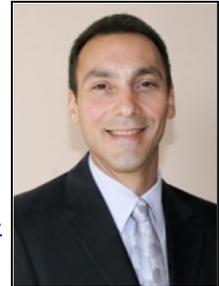

Hello PCA!

Since this is the official “pre-conference” newsletter, I’ll take a moment to encourage all of you to please attend our terrific conference this November 6-8, 2015 at the Penn Stater in State College, PA. This year’s theme is “Striving for More: Keeping Diversity and Social Justice at the Forefront.” We have a terrific keynote speaker, Dr. Michael Mobley (from Salem State University), who is an expert in these areas particularly with focus on social justice for racial minorities and the LGBT community. Dr. Mobley will be giving a keynote as well as a specialized session.

Your conference co-chairs, Drs. Julie Cerreto and Charles Jacob, have been doing a great job planning an excellent conference that will offer 9.25 CEUs (including at least 3 in ethics), as well as many events such as the opening reception/poster session, the keynote address and awards luncheon, division meetings, and other networking opportunities. Hope to see you there. Not registered yet? Click here!

My first “quarter” as PCA president has been a busy one. Hopefully you received (and completed if you are an LPC) the insurance paneling survey via email recently. This initiative is underway as an advocacy effort for LPCs who practice in PA. Many of you have already completed it, so thanks for taking the time. By the time you read this, the survey will have gone out to about 3000 ACA members who live in PA in an attempt for us to glean even more data from LPCs who are not members of PCA (and hopefully gain some new members and conference attendees!). If you are an LPC and have not complete the survey, please feel free to do so. Here is the link, which you are encouraged to forward to colleagues: PCA 2015 Insurance Paneling Survey

In addition, I had the opportunity to attend ACA’s Institute for Leadership Training (ILT) in Arlington this July. It was a terrific experience, chock full of networking and advocacy opportunities. Many members of the ACA team, including their governance council, were very helpful in propelling the insurance paneling initiative. In addition, I, along with your secretary, Linda Thompson, had the opportunity to advocate for our profession on Capitol Hill with regards to issues such as Medicare reimbursement for counselors, allowing counselors in the Vets Administration training program, and the Elementary and Secondary School Counseling Program.

Indeed it’s been a busy few months. My guess is that many of you can say the same. But take a moment to think about how all your busy efforts positively affect the lives of many, and of course, take some time for yourself.

Be sure to enjoy the fall! I look forward to seeing many of you at our conference in November.

President-elect's Message

Charles Jacob, PhD

It's been quite an eventful summer! In addition to getting acclimated to my position at PCA, I've been traveling quite a bit. I recently accepted an invitation to deliver a workshop on ethics this past summer as part of the European Federation of Psychology Students' Association (EFPSA) hosted by the University of Cambridge. The experience was amazing, and I look forward to sharing details of my travels with everyone at the conference reception.

Speaking of, preparations for the conference in November have been keeping everyone at PCA incredibly busy, and many thanks to everyone that submitted proposals! Those of us in charge of reviewing were blown away by both the quality and quantity of submissions. As a Penn State alum, I'm looking forward to spending some time back in State College, but I'm far more excited by the caliber of presentations we have on the agenda this year.

In addition to the conference events and workshops announced on the website, I wanted to remind everyone that we will be holding a board meeting for the Pennsylvania Association for Counselor Education and Supervision (PACES). If you are a counselor educator or simply have an interest in education and training related issues for counselors in Pennsylvania, please reach out to me for more information. PACES and other subdivisions of PCA thrive as a function of member support, and newcomers are always welcome. This meeting will focus on planning for a PACES eastern meeting to be scheduled at La Salle University in the spring of 2016 as well as strategies for meeting CACREP standards, online course delivery, and gatekeeping

Once again, many thanks again to everyone at PCA – but particularly Drs. Datti and Bruno – for their ongoing support as I transition into my new role. Rest assured that we have some fantastic people working behind the scenes.

Hope all is well,

Charles

Past-President's Message

Michelle Bruno, PhD, LPC

I am pleased to be able to continue involvement on the PCA Executive Council as Past President. In this role, I am charged with the task of finding new leadership for our vacant positions. We are currently seeking leadership for two positions.

First, we will need to identify someone interested in serving as the Secretary, as Linda Thompson is completing her third year of service. She provided great support to our team in many ways! This position is a critical one to the team. The Secretary provides assistance to the President for board meetings, takes minutes, and also holds a vote on all board decisions. On a personal note, this was one of the first leadership positions that I was honored to hold as a new professional. Having opportunities to meet with the Executive Council and be part of the planning helped me learn more about the “behind the scenes” efforts. An unexpected reward was the close relationships that I developed with our leadership team and our members. As a result of this position, It enabled many learning opportunities and received wonderful mentoring. It was that position that motivated me to continue my involvement in PCA beyond my term.

Second, we are working hard to revitalize the Pennsylvania Association for Specialists in Group Work (PSGW). We have some eager new and existing members. This is a call for someone to serve as the Chair of the PSGW division.

I hope you will consider getting involved in one of these two leadership positions, or in one of our many committees. I am excited for the fall conference and the networking, energy, and fun that has come to be an expected benefit of this annual tradition. If you have interest in this leadership position, please contact me by email mbruno@iup.edu or make arrangements to meet with me at the upcoming conference to discuss the requirements of the positions.

Best,

Michelle

Join us as we “Strive for More” at the PCA Conference November 6-8, 2015

As the air turns crisp and the leaves begin their descent, we are reminded that the 47th annual Pennsylvania Counseling Association (PCA) Conference is just right around the corner!

Save the dates of November 6-8 at the Penn Stater Conference Center Hotel in beautiful State College, Pennsylvania. This year's theme, “STRIVING FOR MORE: KEEPING DIVERSITY AND SOCIAL JUSTICE ON THE FOREFRONT” has some excellent sessions and events lined up for a wonderful weekend. The conference will provide opportunities to obtain CEU'S in important areas.

Come join us for the Friday First Night reception where you can converse and enjoy cocktails and light culinary fare. Enjoy the camaraderie of fellow counselors while perusing an array of posters. On Saturday morning, start your day with Dr. Paul Datti, PCA President, who will be offering a warm welcome at your continental breakfast. Then, spend the day on Saturday selecting sessions to attend that meet your individual interests. Don't forget about the delicious Saturday luncheon buffet and awards ceremony along with our keynote speaker, Dr. Michael Mobley, from Salem State University. Dr. Mobley is an expert in multicultural counseling competencies focusing on social justice for racial minorities and the LGBT community. Be sure to stick around for the Sunday morning Ethics Learning Institutes, which will focus on selecting and implementing an ethical decision making model as well as the triangulation between personal values, professional ethical standards, and self-disclosures.

But the fun doesn't stop there. Visit the campus of Penn State University, Beaver Stadium (home of the Nittany Lions), or the Arboretum at Penn State (open daily from dawn until dusk with no admission fee). Explore the shops and restaurants in downtown State College. Grab a cup of coffee and revel in the fall foliage while reading a book at one of the many bookstores. Try some ice cream at the Berkey Creamery at Penn State. Whatever you choose, know that State College is consistently ranked in the top ten for best college towns in America. We are positive you can find something to enjoy. Plus, know that both the Penn Stater and its sister property, The Nittany Lion Inn, offer complimentary shuttle service to the conference site as well as to downtown State College.

Early Bird Discount Registrations are available through October 5, 2015. Deadline for hotel reservations at the Penn Stater Conference Center is October 6, 2015 and based on availability. Register today! Visit the website www.pacounseling.org for complete conference information.

Your PCA Conference Co-Chairs, Drs. Julie Cerrito and Charles Jacob, look forward to welcoming you!

Because of the Pope's visit to Philadelphia and other issues beyond our control, the Greater Philadelphia Area Counseling Association was unable to secure a venue for its kick-off event. We have regrouped and are planning one for the Spring term. Keep a look out for a flyer with all of the details.

If you have not already done so, and you are interested in being added to our distribution list, please email me.
